

Guide to playing CODE-OPLOY

The game without bugs... Just undocumented features

C

Starting

Let's get started by gathering everyone behind the screen and ensuring everyone is comfortable. Don't forget to grab some snacks to make the experience even more enjoyable. Once the website is opened, it's time to decide who will be in control of the device.

How to start?

The game begins with the youngest player taking the lead, and from that point on, the order of play follows the progression of the players in a clockwise direction, just like the hands of a clock.

How to play?

Each player selects a Pawn of their choice and places it on the first box of the board. It's important to remember which pawn belongs to each player. Then, the player clicks the "roll dice" button to roll the dice, and based on the number rolled, moves their pawn forward accordingly.

Green, yellow and red boxes

When a player lands on a green, yellow, or red box, they must click the "quiz vragen" button to respond to a question. Simply enter the player's name and indicate the color of the box they are currently standing on, and the program will handle the rest of the process.

N

Points

If the player answers the question correctly, they will be awarded points. Don't worry about keeping track, as the program will automatically tally the total score. Answering a question from a green box earns 1 point, a yellow box question grants 3 points, and a red box question yields 5 points.

How to win?

This game offers two paths to victory: either accumulate 20 points through correctly answered questions, or be the first player to reach box 50. Best of luck!
